HIV & AIDS

WHAT IS HIV?

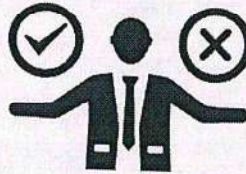

HIV is a virus that damages the immune system. Untreated HIV affects and kills CD4 cells, which are a type of immune cell called T cell.

WHAT IS AIDS?

AIDS is a disease that can develop in people with HIV. It's the most advanced stage of HIV. But just because a person has HIV doesn't mean AIDS will develop.

TRANSMISSION OF HIV

- skin-to-skin contact
- hugging, shaking hands, or kissing
- air or water
- sharing food or drinks, including drinking fountains
- saliva, tears, or sweat (unless mixed with the blood of a person with HIV)
- sharing a toilet, towels, or bedding
- mosquitoes or other insects

TESTS FOR DIAGNOSIS

Antibody/antigen tests

Antibody tests

Nucleic acid test (NAT)

HIV WINDOW PERIOD

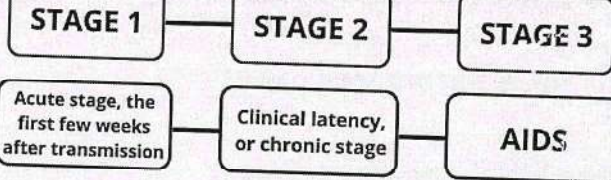

The time between exposure to HIV and when it becomes detectable in the blood is called the HIV window period. Most people develop detectable HIV antibodies within 23 to 90 days after transmission.

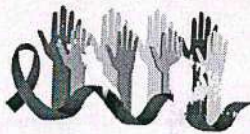

If a person takes an HIV test during the window period, it's likely they'll receive a negative result. However, they can still transmit the virus to others during this time.

HIV AND AIDS: WHAT'S THE CONNECTION?

To develop AIDS, a person has to have contracted HIV. But having HIV doesn't necessarily mean that someone will develop AIDS.

There were approximately 38.4 million people across the globe with HIV in 2020. Of these, 36.7 million were adults and 1.7 million were children (<15 years old). In addition, 54% were women and girls.

In the 1990s, a 20-year-old person with HIV had a life expectancy of 19 years. By 2011, it had improved to 53 years. Today, life expectancy is near normal if antiretroviral therapy is started soon after contracting HIV.

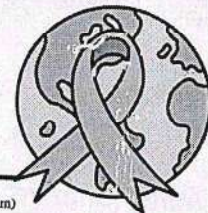

TREATMENT

Antiretroviral therapy - CLASSES

- nucleoside reverse transcriptase inhibitors (NRTIs)
- non-nucleoside reverse transcriptase inhibitors (NNRTIs)
- protease inhibitors
- fusion inhibitors
- CCR5 antagonists, also known as entry inhibitors
- integrase strand transfer inhibitors
- attachment inhibitors

helps keep HIV from progressing to AIDS. It also helps reduce the risk of transmitting HIV to others.

IQAC ACTIVITY No: IQAC/2022-23/NSS/15

Details of activity:

Name of the Activity	Pet Connect-Compassion Towards Injured Animal	Activity No.	IQAC/2022-23/NSS/15
Day, Date	Friday, 23/12/2022	Department/ Committee/Faculty	NSS Unit of VES COP
Venue	Bhumi Jeevdaya Samvardhan Trust, Turbhe	Time	9 AM TO 3 AM
Nature of activity	Offline	Total no. of participants	06

Activity Information:

Objectives	The aim of the event was to visit an animal rescue organisation. We made it our goal to offer a variety of animal welfare programs to engage adopters, donors, and community members. It is our objective to educate the public about the plight of the homeless animals and to help them become involved in the various aspects of rescue.
Methodology	The NSS volunteers actively participated in the event. We took care of the rescued animals and gave them all the required medication. We provided a vote of appreciation to the organisation for their good efforts for homeless or abandoned animals.
Outcomes	The event served its purpose as all the participating volunteers responsibly took up this event and provided all the medication to the animals and took good care. Everyone enjoyed the event and felt satisfaction at the end.
